SourceOne Moves to New Headquarters

CHICAGO, IL – SourceOne® Global Partners LLC. (“SourceOne”), a leading provider of health and wellness solutions created through scientific research and innovative product development, has announced the relocation of its offices, still in downtown Chicago.

“Thanks to the loyal support of our domestic and international customers and partners, SourceOne has grown in staff, strategic partners and customer base. Therefore, after more than 10 years at our previous address, we have moved into larger offices that are better suited to accommodate our growing staff and diverse product line,” explained Jesse Lopez, SourceOne founder and CEO.

The new offices allow for more sophisticated communications, such as high-definition iCam technology and larger screens to enhance virtual face-to-face meeting experiences. "This is a strategic part of our growth strategy to better serve clients and strengthen functional collaborations between our corporate headquarters and technology partners, product manufacturers and brand marketers to create next-generation, patent-protected ingredients, innovative formulations and delivery systems," Lopez added.
