SourceOne™ Global Partners Moves into New World Headquarters

Move reflects goal of continuous customer service, satisfaction and marketing support excellence

CHICAGO, IL—SourceOne has announced that continued growth both domestically and internationally necessitates larger corporate offices. The growing worldwide demand for its signature Cholestrinol™ family of heart-healthy formulas, CoQsource®, OmegaChoice™ and other proprietary products has created the need to secure a larger corporate office space.

In the just the past two years alone, the SourceOne executive team has established several integral partnerships with worldwide technology leaders to bring specific proprietary innovations to the global health and nutrition market place.

SourceOne has partnered with Twin Rivers Technologies (TRT) to launch U.S. produced Omega-3 concentrates. TRT's proprietary Omega-3 technologies and beverage emulsion capabilities provide a strong foundation to meet growing consumer demand for higher omega-3 EPA and DHA concentrations in novel forms.

SourceOne™ has also formed a strategic alliance with Vesifact AG to launch its patented application technologies, notably VESIsorb®, a natural self-assembling colloidal delivery system shown to enhance the performance of medical, nutraceutical and cosmetic ingredients.

And most recently, SourceOne has formed a partnership with Nutri Pharmaceuticals Research, Inc. to introduce its innovative application technology, patent-pending O2P™ Oil-to-Powder Technology, to be used to extend SourceOne's product portfolio with free-flowing powders.

“There are a few innovative technology firms that are making breakthroughs in natural nutritional ingredient delivery, absorption and utilization. We have benefited from our alliances, our customers have benefited, and ultimately the health-conscious consumer benefits with healthier foods and beverages, healthier animals, and more natural personal care and beauty products,” comments Lopez. “Our reputation for successful partnerships continues to galvanize our leadership role in the global health and wellness market place. After five years, we are confident that the industry will remain strong and ultimately serve to enhance the quality of lives of millions through emerging technologies that provide outstanding product efficacy.”
